

Educational Classes

Adams County Stormwater staff offers free educational classes for homeowners and businesses focusing on best management practices for stormwater quality. This can include information on business practices to minimize stormwater impact, household chemical disposal, yard work tips to reduce stormwater pollution, and construction site management. Every class is tailored to the group focusing on the specific operations of the business or activities of the homeowner. Classes are intended to be given in a group setting, ideally with all employees of the business or a neighborhood group. Training classes are available in English and Spanish. Contact swq@adcogov.org to schedule the class.
